THE ULTIMATE GUIDE TO FACEBOOK AND TWITTER FOR POLITICAL CHANGE
As you know, the online landscape has transformed how we send and receive news in an innovative and exciting way. People are now more connected than ever before, accessing the Internet and social media outlets such as Facebook and Twitter via their smartphones, iPads and laptops. You can send pictures, share news articles and more at the touch of a button.

Media outlets, lawmakers and government institutions have joined online conversations too, but because there are so many users, people are relying more on their friends and peers for credible information. We trust those we know personally more than politicians in Washington, and rightfully so.

It's time to get active and engaged online. This guide will help you navigate the online world, starting with the basics. You'll be an expert in no time, utilizing Facebook and Twitter for true and conservative political change.

Sincerely,

Mike Needham
CEO, Heritage Action for America

FACEBOOK

BUILD YOUR PROFILE

- Complete the signup form by going to www.facebook.com.

- Go down to the “Sign Up” section and fill in your information in the appropriate sections.

- Add your email as the user name.

- For your “New Password”, this will be the password you use when signing in. It must be at least six letters, numbers or punctuation marks.

- After you have filled in all the appropriate information, hit the “Sign Up” button.

UPDATE YOUR PROFILE BY FILLING OUT YOUR INFORMATION

- Add as much personal information, or as little, as you’d like.

SET YOUR PRIVACY OPTIONS

- Decide how private or public you want your information to be. (Example: Do you want only your friends to see pictures you post?) You can also edit privacy options on posts individually.

HOW TO VIEW PRIVACY WHEN USING FACEBOOK FOR POLITICAL CHANGE

Your privacy is of the utmost importance. When it comes to using Facebook for political change, it’s important to note that content you share will have the most impact the more public it is. This will enable people you’re not friends with to share and view your posts, increasing reach.
ADD FRIENDS

- Add friends and family, but also think of this as an online networking tool. For example, if you meet someone at your local tea party meeting, send them a friend request to add them as a friend and stay connected. Share details about upcoming events, swap information about issues, and ultimately work together to hold your members accountable.

How to add friends:

- Use the “Search Facebook” toolbar to look for someone by name or email. When you’re on their page, send them a request by clicking “Add Friend”.
- Along the blue header at the top of Facebook, you’ll see an icon that looks like the outline of two people—that’s where you’ll go to accept and deny friend requests people send to you.

CONNECTING WITH OTHERS

- Newsfeed
  This is a great source of news! Any posts your friends make and any page you like that shares content will show up here on your homepage, after you’ve already logged into your account of course. Stay updated by scrolling through your newsfeed.

- Comments
  Engage in the conversation. By commenting on a post you can add facts, anecdotes and use this platform to directly talk with people about the issues.

- Like
  Facebook has recently made updates so you can go further than just “liking” something - you can react (love, anger, etc.). If you see something you agree with, give it a thumbs up. This feature is useful to engage with others without having to comment on everything that pops up on your newsfeed.

- Sharing
  If you see a compelling status, video, infographic, etc., feel free to share that content with your friends.

    Simply scroll to the bottom of the post you want to share, and hit the share button. Facebook will give you an option to “share now” (immediately and with all your friends), “Share” (you can share directly on a friend’s wall), or to “send in a private message”.

Pro Tip:
Download the Facebook and Messenger apps on your smartphone so you can scroll through your newsfeed and messages on-the-go!
MESSENGER

- This is a great tool to directly talk with someone. Messenger keeps it between you and whoever is looped in on the conversation—a private way to communicate so all your friends don’t see.

Sending:
- Start a private one-on-one conversation, or make it a group message with multiple people.
  To compose, click the “Messages” icon along the blue header at the top of Facebook. Then click “New Message” and enter the name of who you want to send your message to.

Receiving:
- You’ll receive a notification that you have unread messages. To check your inbox click on the “Messages” icon.
- Messages from non-friends have to be accepted, sometimes they get sent to your “Message Requests” folder that you can access by going to the Messages icon and clicking “Message Requests” to the right of “Recent”.

HOW TO POST ON FACEBOOK

On your homepage there is a white box posing a question, “What’s on your mind?” By clicking there you can add text, a picture, or the link to a video or news article. Then you can set who you want to see the post. When it’s complete, click “Post”.

Tip: Keep it short and to the point. It’s easy to keep scrolling through your newsfeed, which is why lengthy posts that take some time to read tend to get overlooked.

Show your friends what you’re doing! Whether you’re going to your Member of Congress’s town hall or a community event, snap a picture and share.

“LIKE” PAGES

- It’s important to make sure you “like” your Representative and Senators’ Facebook pages. Use the search bar to look up their name. Once you get to their page click “like”.
- This will add anything they post (press releases, statements, vote updates, co-sponsorships, etc.) to your newsfeed.
- You can also like pages of organizations (Example: Heritage Action for America). Any content posted by that organization will also appear in your newsfeed.

Join Conservative Groups

THIS IS VITAL TO YOUR ONLINE ACTIVISM EFFORTS

Find local tea party organizations, the county GOP, conservatives in your area, and more by utilizing the “Search Facebook” toolbar at the top of Facebook. It’ll make some suggestions, but if you look at the bottom of the results, a “See all results” option will appear—click that. That will bring you to all the results, and click the tab that says “Groups”. When you find what you’re looking for click “Join”. Private groups will have to accept you, so you might not have immediate access.

This is a great way to find out about events, share information and connect with people in your community. Comment or post within that group to engage and contribute to important conservative conversations.
CREATING A FACEBOOK EVENT

- On your homepage, there is a toolbar on the left. There is a tab titled “Events” that you can go to. Click “Create” and update the information. Make sure you decide if you want the event private or public. You can always go back and make edits.
- Invite friends to the event and share on your own Facebook wall to encourage your friends to invite guests.
- Create the event at least two weeks in advance, and post in the event page the day before to remind guests—they'll get a notification from Facebook.

Suggested Facebook profiles to “like”:

- Heritage Action for America
- The Heritage Foundation
- The Daily Signal
- Jim DeMint
- The legislative and campaign accounts for your Representative and Senators
- Media outlet accounts: Fox News, Daily Signal, The Hill, Morning Consult, Washington Examiner, etc.

  That being said, if someone is bothering you don't hesitate to block them.
